1. Further investigation of a previous report that Lt. Col. Alfonso Llosa had resigned his position as Peruvian representative on the Inter-American Defense Board and intended to return to Peru* reveals that Llosa did submit his resignation to Peruvian Ambassador Berckemeyer in Washington. However, after consultation with Lima, Berckemeyer refused to accept the resignation.
2. Llosa then decided against attempting to return to Lima after receiving word from his supporters in Peru that "the time was not yet right".
3. Llosa is now hopeful that Luis Alberto Flores, leader of the Union Revolucionaria (UR), which is sympathetic to Llosa, will be able to arrange for Llosa's return to Peru. However, individuals close to Flores state that the UR leader is very doubtful that he can persuade President Odria to permit the return. Flores mentioned the matter to the President, who is willing to give Llosa almost any official post abroad which he wants, but does not want him in Peru at this time. Flores, himself, is reported to feel that Llosa's return is not advisable.
4. Meanwhile, Llosa's wife is in Lima trying to rent her house before she returns to the United States.
